

REGIONAL NEWS ROUNDUP

Only "pub" between Penticton and Kelowna may become reality at Peachland — but it all depends on the electors, and past records indicate the "wets" will have a tough fight.

The "drys," who have triumphed in all previous plebiscites—and the plebiscites have come up with frequent regularity—are gearing themselves for another battle at the polls.

Latest plebiscite is set for Feb. 21, at Peachland.

All those on the provincial voters' list will be able to say yes or no to the question: "Are you in favor of Tolson Inn being granted a public house licence?"

The Tolson Inn already has a lounge liquor licence.

TUNNEL PROGRESSES

VANCOUVER (CP) — An 18,500 ton section of concrete was sunk into place Tuesday at the site of the Deas Island tunnel, 10 miles south of here in the south arm of the Fraser river.

The lowering of the giant section, 350 feet long, 78 feet wide and 23 feet deep, marked completion of one-third of the tunnel shell on the bed of the river.

The task took more than eleven hours seven huge anchors being used to guide the section into position.

The tunnel is being built to provide Vancouver with a new arterial highway to the south and a shorter route to the United States border.

BLOOD DRIVE SUCCESS

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 2,500 gallons of blood was donated at Red Cross clinics in Vancouver during 1957, the annual meeting of the Red Cross Society Vancouver branch was told Tuesday.

Officers said city hospitals use about 400 pints a week and it is expected an extra 1,000 pints will be needed during 1958.

LIQUOR STOLEN

VICTORIA (CP) — Twenty cases of mixed liquor were stolen late Monday or early Tuesday from a CNR freight car in the E and N Railway yard here. Constable Charles M. Hitchen of the city police said both doors seals had been broken on the car.

LAYOFFS EXPECTED

VICTORIA (CP) — Yarrow's Ltd. Shipyard, long a mainstay of employment in the area, reached its lowest postwar ebb Tuesday with announcement 200 more men would be laid off by the end of this week.

The latest cut reduces the total number of workers to a scant 140—from a postwar peak of 1,150 last August.

VANCOUVER (CP) — If you want to learn about fishing, go to the University of British Columbia.

UBC announced today it will offer a two-week short course on fisheries starting March 7.

MUD SWINGS CASE

VANCOUVER (CP) — A conviction based on similarity of mud was upheld Tuesday by the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

William Alexander Ramsey, 27, was found guilty at Prince George last July of breaking into the Cariboo Meat Packing Company at Prince George the previous November and was sentenced by Judge A. H. J. Swendsen to five years.

An RCMP expert testified at his trial that mud found on Ramsey's shoes was the same as that outside the meat packing office.

SUNDAY SPORT BILL

VICTORIA (CP) — A private bill which would permit any municipal council to pass a bylaw authorizing Sunday sports following a plebiscite will be introduced to the legislature this week.

The bill, entitled the "Lord's Day (British Columbia) Act" will be introduced by Gordon Dowling (CCF-Burnaby).

Volunteer Sputnik Jockey Faints At Red Summons

MICKLEOVER, England (AP) — Having thought the matter over at some length, 13-year-old Lloyd Lee has abandoned his dream of becoming the world's first Sputnik pilot. What business has a chap got in outer space when he swoons at sea level?

It is hoped the Russians can take a joke. In any case the Soviet embassy in London may as well ignore Lloyd's letter of Jan. 21 offering to man (or boy) a Sputnik for them. He is no longer available, and he wasn't too available to begin with.

Lloyd is a student at the Queen Elizabeth Grammar School, where recently a rumor

Union stands ready to fork out $140,000 a head for Sputnik skippers.

Lloyd, an imaginative chap, fired off a letter of acceptance to the embassy in London.

REPORT TO SIBERIA

Two days ago he received a letter headed "Russian Embassy" and typed in red, yet it advised him that he had been chosen as a prospective Sputnik jockey and added:

"You will be required to do some training in Siberia. Our agents will be contacting you within the next few days to take you away for training."

At this point it became obvious that Lloyd was far short of starting condition for a space flight—he fainted.

"I was frightened out of my wits," his mother said later. She summoned his father home from work to guard Lloyd from the Red press gangs, locked all the doors and windows, and telephoned the police.

SUSPICIOUS PAPER

A detective assigned to the case reported after an inquiry that the newspaper of the kind used for the letter to Lloyd had been found in a certain upper-class desk at the Queen Elizabeth school. More conclusive still, certain upper-classmen confessed writing the letter.

Mrs. Lee, greatly relieved, told a reporter:

"Lloyd no longer wishes to be a spaceman. He now wants to join the merchant navy."

The Soviet embassy so far has had no comment.

Crime Wave Hits Brooklyn School

NEW YORK (AP) — The foreman of a special grand jury investigating crime in Brooklyn public schools has suggested that parents have their children boycott schools where crime is prevalent.

Foreman A. George Golden made the suggestion at a jury session Tuesday.

At the time, the grand jury had not yet learned that George Goldfarb, 55, principal of violence-tormented John Marshall Junior High School in Brooklyn, had plunged to his death from the roof of his apartment building.

The district attorney's office pronounced him a suicide.

County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz promised to study Golden's proposal, which was made in the form of a question:

"Is there anything in the law that could prevent thousands of mothers and fathers from having their young children boycott the schools until something is done?"

Leibowitz said he will confer with district attorney Edward S. Silver and report back to the grand jury.

When notified of Goldfarb's death, Golden said the jurors will call in board of education officials to find out whether the principal had been under pressure or had been threatened with disciplinary action for telling the jurors last Thursday that he would like to have a policeman stationed inside his school.

The grand jury and Leibowitz favor stationing a policeman in every school in New York City but the suggestion has been turned down.

Last week a 13-year-old white girl at John Marshall reported she had been raped in the school basement by an unidentified Negro boy.

The rape resulted in Goldfarb's appearance before the grand jury. He was due to appear again Tuesday.

Last Thursday two other incidents involving violence were reported at his school.

Patrolman Thomas Fleming, on duty outside the school, was punched by one of six youths he ordered not to loiter around the building. And the school's recreation director was assaulted by a youth in the basement of the school.

Gagnon Appointed Lieut.-Governor

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of former provincial finance minister Onesimo Gagnon as lieutenant-governor of Quebec was announced today by Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Appointment of Mr. Gagnon, who resigned his cabinet post Friday, is effective Feb. 14.

Leslie R. Smith Appointed Head Of CPR B.C. District

VANCOUVER—Leslie R. Smith, native of Penticton, has been appointed general superintendent of the CPR's British Columbia district, it was announced today by J. N. Frairie, vice-president, Pacific region. He succeeds J. C. Jones, who retires January 13 after 46 years' service.

Mr. Smith, well-known in Kelowna, started on the Revelstoke division 21 years ago as an operator. He gained practical railway experience in Lethbridge, Nelson, Cranbrook, Penticton, Montreal, Calgary and Medicine Hat until his appointment as general superintendent of the Saskatchewan district at Moose Jaw in 1953.

He has been schooled in business administration at the University of Western Ontario.

Mr. Jones, a native of Windsor, Ont., was educated at Brandon, Man., and has served in many capacities in Moose Jaw, Regina, Cathlamet, Wilkie, Humboldt, and Regina. He was married to Mrs. Edna Jones and has three children, Edna, Edgar and Edgar, in his long service. He served overseas in World War I as an officer.

CBC, TV Union Hope To Avert General Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — CBC and International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees (IATSE) spokesmen were to meet with federal conciliators today in a bid to iron out a dispute that could result in a midnight walk-out of about 1,200 CBC employees in Montreal and Toronto.

The union's Montreal executive Tuesday agreed to extend to 6 p.m. EST (3 p.m. PST) today a deadline on a strike ultimatum to give federal conciliation officers Raoul Trepanier and Remy Duquette of Montreal more time to arrange a settlement.

A weekend dismissal by the CBC of 41 stagehands here for refusing to perform "assigned duties" is behind the dispute.

Representatives of the CBC's 600 Montreal employees threatened strike action and spokesmen for a similar number of CBC employees in Toronto pledged support and prepared a sympathy strike.

Chrysler, UAW Head Off Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Negotiators for Chrysler Corporation and the United Auto Workers union scheduled a meeting today in an effort to head off a strike at the huge Dodge Main plant in suburban Hamtramck.

"Kill Crazy" Youth Hunted In 6 Slayings

BENNETT, Neb. (AP) — Six brutal unexplained killings spaced in three and discovered in a span of 24 hours—spurred an intensive search today for a "kill-crazy" youth described as a 19-year-old youth described as "kill-crazy" and his 15-year-old girl friend.

Armed farmers and law officers throughout Nebraska sought Charles Starkweather, who Sheriff Merle Karnopp and Lincoln police chief Joe Carroll said "is the man we want," and Carl Fugate, both of Lincoln.

Chief Carroll said: "I just hope he doesn't kill any more. Never in my 27 years on the force have I seen anything to compare with these wanton murders."

County attorney Elmer Scheele said both Charles, 210 pounds and red-haired, and the girl will be charged with first-degree murder.

Four of the victims died with rifle bullets in their heads. Another was shot in the head with a shotgun. The other, a two-year-old child, apparently died of a fractured skull.

THOR LAUNCHING SUCCESS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The hour is approaching for the United States Army's attempt to launch an American earth satellite.

Officially, there is no information on when the army's Jupiter-C will blast off into space with its 30-pound "moon." There were indications today, however, that the final count-down check of the missile was about to start.

Attention shifted momentarily away from the Jupiter-C Tuesday when the air force took the stage with a successful firing of its Thor intermediate-range ballistic missile.

The spectacular shot was witnessed by thousands of persons in this area. The fiery Thor, with which the air force plans to put satellite into orbit and to hit the moon, was visible for four minutes after its blast-off.

The air force said only that the Thor "flew its prescribed course and landed in the pre-selected impact area." Five of the nine Thors flown from here have performed well.

The big emphasis today, however, was on the Jupiter-C and the imminent effort to hurl a satellite into space with the Russian Sputnik II.

Many experts believe the thoroughly tested Jupiter-C has a much better chance of performing its mission than the new Vanguard rocket. The first Vanguard blew up on its launching pad Dec. 6 and a four-day effort to launch a second one last week ended in failure.

Business Moves To Ease Money

U.K. ROCKET DEVELOPMENT REPORTED AHEAD OF U.S.

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times says Britain is developing an intermediate-range ballistic missile whose range will exceed that of American IRBM.

The missile, says the Times, would be fired from underground sites, adding that "British scientists regard this as a step beyond U.S. missiles designed to be fired from ground level and hence as vulnerable to attack as bombers on an airfield."

District Teachers Ask Higher Salary Scales

Teachers and trustees of Kelowna School District 23 do not see eye to eye in connection with salaries for 1958.

According to the board of trustees an offer of an increase of four per cent in salaries, effective January 1, has been made but the teachers were asking for an increase that, according to the trustees, would amount to 23 per cent.

The board's proposed new scale would start at $2,400 for the beginning teacher and reach to a maximum of $6,100 for a fully-qualified person.

This would mean an additional $23,000 on the school budget.

According to the board, the Kelowna Teachers Association requested increases that would cost an additional $188,000, working out at an average of $1,000 more for the 188 teachers in the school district.

The teachers' proposed scale would be $2,800 for a beginner's salary to $7,200 for the fully-qualified teacher's maximum.

If the teachers' requests are met, it would mean a six-mill increase in the tax structure, according to the board. Increases in teaching salaries are not shared by the government, the board pointed out, but have to be paid entirely by local taxpayers.

The trustees advised that the four per cent increase went into effect at the start of the year and that the KTA have not yet protested officially by applying for arbitration.

The Kelowna School District 23 salary scale, up to the end of the year, was slightly higher than those existing in Vernon and Penticton, the board said.

Queen Mother's Feather Bothers Newspapermen

VANCOUVER (CP) — The origin of a slender black feather atop the Queen Mother's hat, which started a controversy among reporters covering her stopover in Montreal Tuesday, remained a mystery after her arrival in Vancouver Tuesday night.

Her Majesty wore a blue hat with a black feather—perhaps the same one she wore in Montreal—when she stepped from her plane for a 24-hour stopover here. But nobody was quite sure what kind of feather.

A Montreal reporter described it as "an egret"—product of the white heron, whose feathers are banned in Canada.

A few years ago Mrs. Frank Ross, wife of the lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, wore an egret-trimmed hat to a legislature opening and had the hat seized by customs. Mrs. Ross met the Queen Mother on her arrival Tuesday night.

City Boy, 3, Hurt In Ski Outing

A three-year-old boy is recovering from serious injuries received when a wild toboggan ride was ended abruptly by a tree trunk.

In "good" condition, according to his father, is Michael, son of Dr. and Mrs. K. A. France. The boy is suffering from a skull fracture and other injuries.

The France family, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. G. Athans and family were on a skiing outing at the timberline hill on the old McCulloch road when the mishap occurred.

Michael jumped on a toboggan by himself and before anyone could stop it the toboggan struck a tree with considerable force.

SINATRA TO BUY Radio Stations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Authority to purchase three Pacific Northwest radio stations for about $2,000,000 was requested Tuesday from the Communication Commission by singer Frank Sinatra and associates.

The stations are KUR, Seattle; KNEW, Spokane, and KZL, Portland.

The council called on businessmen to look upon 1958 as a year of challenge.

Jupiter-C Blast Off Nears

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The hour is approaching for the United States Army's attempt to launch an American earth satellite.

At-breathing engines like the turbojet will complement rockets in the development of space flight. "Breathing" engines could lift a space vehicle through the heavy layers of air that surround the earth. The drawing at left visualizes a boost unit containing 12 turbojet engines (three in pods and nine nested together in fuselage of the boost unit.) Drawing at right demonstrates that once the boost unit is beyond the dense layers of atmosphere, the space vehicle could separate at high speed and continue under rocket power.

Centennial Project Will See Long Dream Come True

GLENMORE — The presentation of the B.C. centennial flag to Glenmore council by centennial chairman H. M. Willett, marked a milestone in a long quest by Glenmore residents to secure a recreational hall, complete in every respect.

Glenmore's centennial project is the addition of a stage to the activity room of the Glenmore Elementary School, the cost of which is to be borne jointly by School District No. 23 (Kelowna), the municipality, and funds from the provincial Centennial grants. The addition of a stage will mean that Glenmore people will have an activity room at their disposal which is the ideal substitute for a community hall.

The history behind Glenmore's quest for a place where public activities can be held, really dates back to 1912 when the Glenmore School was built, on land then owned by the Central Okanagan Land Co. Ltd. When the District of Glenmore was incorporated as a municipality on Oct. 5, 1922, title to the property was decided to the municipality, and the school continued to be the local seat of learning, until June 1925, when Glenmore students were taken to school in Kelowna under an agreement with the Kelowna School Board.

It was at this time that Glenmore started to seriously consider a community hall, and the now discussed school seemed the logical choice. The Glenmore School Board continued to maintain the building as a community hall, until Jan. 1948, when the school was turned over to the municipal council for future operation and upkeep. In Feb. 1948 an agreement was entered into with Glenmore Community Club to allow that group to operate the old school building as a community hall. While this structure did not contain the amenities as are found in present day community halls, nevertheless many an enjoyable evening of dancing and other activities was held. In the summer of that year, the building was destroyed by fire, and one of the oldest landmarks in Glenmore disappeared.

In March of 1950 work was commenced by School District No. 23 (Kelowna), on the erection of an elementary school in Glenmore, and in the specifications was included an activity room. This served as a place of recreation for the community group, and as a hall for the P.T.A. Girl Guides, Brownies, Boy Scouts, and Wolf Cubs. In Nov. 1953 a recreation commission for Glenmore was formed under the community program branch, department of education, to regulate and supervise over the community recreational activities. A referendum conducted in December of that year to appropriate $1,200 of municipal funds to the recreation commission for alterations to the activity room, passed by a large majority. To this amount the Glenmore Community Club added $800.00 with the result that wash room facilities were added, and a private entrance to the activity room instead of entering through the school became a reality. Since the time that the activity room was built, there has been an urgent need for a stage. School student activities have been curtailed, and other groups using the activity room, have continually felt the need for a stage.

The Glenmore Dramatic Club, has not been able to be very active due mainly to lack of staging facilities. With the construction of a stage as Glenmore's centennial project, the hopes, and aspirations of many of the district's loyal workers for a hall complete in every manner for recreational activity will become a reality. It may have taken over 30 years to achieve this aim, but then Glenmore people are a persistent breed.

The actual dates of Glenmore's centennial celebrations cannot be definitely set at this time, as they are contingent on when the stage will be completed.

Glenmore's centennial committee consists of: H. M. Willett, chairman; Reeve P. R. Moubrey, vice-chairman; S. Pearson, secretary-treasurer; D. S. Braund, G. C. Hume (Jr.), G. L. Pointer, and Jack Snowsall, members.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT

Bennett Approached On School Taxation

City council has gone direct to Premier Bennett regarding its charges that the city of Kelowna is required to pay more than its fair share of school taxes in Kelowna School District 23.

At the same time, council has drafted a strong resolution calling for compliance of the provincial government's equalization assessment law.

The resolution, which will be presented at the next quarterly meeting of the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association at Lumby Feb. 13, calls for the provincial government "to take steps to ensure a complete assessment revision by 1959 of the unincorporated area within Kelowna School District 23, in order to comply with the level set by the assessment commissioner."

Council points out that the assessment commissioner, under the Assessment Equalization Act of 1953, requires that sound equalized rolls be established throughout the province by 1959.

Kelowna contends that only a small portion of the school district has been reassessed. Meanwhile, the city's assessment is up to date.

School costs levied by the provincial government are based on assessment values. While Kelowna's assessment values have climbed considerably, and so have the school costs charged to the city, most of the rural area is contributing to school costs on the basis of assessments several years old.

Consequently, the council has charged that the unincorporated area is not paying its fair share and that Kelowna is having to pay more than it should under the provisions of the equalization act.

Since Premier Bennett is the M.L.A. for this constituency, Mayor R. F. Parkinson, on behalf of the city, has written the premier, drawing this matter to his attention and pointing out that only one year is left to comply with the regulations set out in the equalization act.

The mayor's letter wondered what steps could be taken to ensure a complete reassessment of the rural areas by 1959.

CITY TO CORRECT LOADING PRACTICE

A long-standing malpractice of heavy freight trucks partially blocking off streets and lanes while loading or unloading, will be corrected, city council indicated Monday night.

Specific reference was made to the industrial area where it is a common sight to see long freight trailer-trucks blocking off more than half of the street, in some cases allowing barely enough room for a passenger car to get through.

A complainant drew this situation to the council's attention.

Mrs. E. Taylor Rites Thursday

Funeral services will be held Thursday for Mrs. Effie Taylor, wife of G. Nelson Taylor, 647 Patterson Ave. Her death occurred in hospital Monday. She was 69.

Final rites will be held at 10 a.m. at Kelowna Funeral Directors' chapel, Rev. F. Willis, First Baptist church, will officiate.

Mr. Willis will conduct graveside rites at Hillside cemetery, Kamloops, at 2:30 p.m.

The late Mrs. Taylor left Newfoundland 42 years ago for Vancouver where she was an ardent church worker. She taught Sunday School for many years in North Vancouver First Baptist church. The Taylors retired to Kelowna 10 years ago.

Surviving are her husband, two sons, George Theodore, Kamloops, and Lloyd Archibald, Vancouver; five grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. W. Robins and Mrs. D. McKay, Vancouver, and a brother, Graham Clarke, Vancouver.

Failure to stop at a stop sign cost Simon Louis Swart a fine of $25 and costs in city police court. He pleaded guilty.

AWAIT LRB ACTION

Rival Union Dispute May Be Nearing End

The lengthy jurisdictional dispute between two rival unions in the fruit and vegetable industry may be nearing a decisive stage.

This was indicated in notices distributed by the Labor Relations Board dated Jan. 16. These notices advised that application has been made for decertification of the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers' Unions in certain plants in the Okanagan and one in the Kootenays.

While the notices provided nothing new (the applications for decertification were made several months ago) they are interpreted in some quarters as meaning that the board now is dealing with the applications.

The applications for decertification of the FFWU were prompted by the Teamsters' fruit and vegetable union. The applications claim that the FFWU should lose its certification as bargaining agents because the FFWU has ceased to be a trade union and has ceased to represent the employees in the plants in question.

Those allegations are disputed by FFWU, who maintain the federation still holds bargaining authority and are representative of the majority.

If the interpretation of the LRB notices is correct, then it is possible LRB will rule on the applications shortly.

Meanwhile, the federation, according to business agent L. Kanefor, Penicton, "is no longer on the defensive," but is going on the "offensive."

The federation has announced that well-known B.C. lawyer Thomas G. Norris, Q.C., Vancouver, has been hired to act as its legal counsel.

It also was learned that no settlement has been reached between the Teamsters and the Federation over the funds and property of the Federation that was taken over by the Teamsters two years ago.

The Federation got a court order in this matter, but the order so far has not been carried out. However, it was learned from a Teamsters' spokesman that an audit is being prepared for presentation to the registrar at Penicton next month.

SNOWDROPS START POKING UP HEADS

Mother Nature is "All Shook Up"—and you can blame it on the mild winter enjoyed this season by Okanagan Valley residents.

A couple of weeks ago, The Daily Courier reported that tulips and daffodils were poking their heads above the ground.

This week Dr. C. D. Newby brought a cluster of snowdrops into The Courier office. Dr. Newby said they are one month earlier than last year.

Juvenile Delinquency Talk Excites Wide City Interest

Hundreds of Kelowna and district people of all ages thronged the Senior High School auditorium Monday night, confirming their keen interest in the problem of juvenile delinquency.

The panel of experts, chaired by Miss Jean Wilton, John Howard Society social worker from Vancouver, were sponsored by the Kelowna Elementary Parent-Teacher Association.

The panel included Mrs. N. E. DeHart, Kelowna, representing the home; Lt. A. R. Jarvie, Salvation Army, Kelowna, representing the school; Dennis Guest, Vernon, probation officer; James H. Pantion, Kelowna, representing organized recreation; Gordon Schramm, Kelowna, social worker, and Sgt. W. B. Irving, head of the Kelowna RCMP detachment.

Heavier stress on spiritual training of both parents and children was made by Lieutenant Jarvie. His forceful presentation of the spiritual atmosphere created in the home, where religious training is foremost, was given enthusiastic appreciation by the overflowing crowd.

School inspector Johnson opined that society has failed to come to grips with the situation. He felt there could be improvements made in the curriculum and teachers, and that students who would not work, should be not allowed to continue.

RESPECT FOR AUTHORITY

Mayor R. F. Parkinson, who was introduced by the Kelowna Elementary P.T.A. president, Mrs. E. R. Pelly, said that one of the "soft cores of society today is the lack of respect for authority in adults as well as the young people."

Before dashing away to the regular city council meeting, which started at the same time as the panel discussion, the mayor reiterated his inauguration day promise to set up a youth council in the city to study and direct youth problems in the city.

Miss Wilton opined that the pattern of delinquency can be detected in childhood or early school years and to counteract this the school staff should be augmented with a qualified worker who can meet with children and their parents when a child's behaviour pattern shows the need of help.

This suggestion has the endorsement of the P.T.A.

Mr. Schramm pointed out that parents may avail themselves of the services of child guidance clinics at Vancouver and Victoria. He said there was a travelling clinic in the province, but it appears in the Okanagan "only once or twice a year. Parents may apply for help from the clinic through their social welfare office or their family doctor."

Giving the parents' point of view, Mrs. DeHart said that more discipline was needed in the home and not only the children must be impressed with the importance of respect for authority, but parents, too, needed to improve their respect (for authority).

BOARDING SCHOOLS

Improved training for teachers and counsellors was needed, he said, and smaller classes also would help. The boarding, cottage type schools, where pupils may be placed for relatively short periods, would be of tremendous help, he said.

Recreational director James Pantion pointed out that with the increase of leisure time for both adults and children, a proper direction of every facet of recreation was needed urgently. Organization is of paramount importance, he said, adding that a coordinator was a prime need for every community.

Sgt. Irving emphasized, too, the lack of parental control and suggested that a trip to the woodshed would do a lot of good.

Young people are handed too much, they should work for what they get, the police chief said.

While appreciating the work done by the Vernon probation officer, who visits Kelowna twice a week, Sgt. Irving contended that Kelowna needs its own probation officer—every day of the week.

The probation officer, Mr. Guest, contended that there was a vital need for a child guidance clinic in the Okanagan.

SPORTLIGHT

Fate Of Kids Baseball Hangs In Balance Now

By GEORGE INGLIS
(Capitol Sports Editor)

The fate of kids' baseball in the Orchard City hangs in the balance tonight.

Should there be a good turnout of interested parents and enthusiasts with a desire to see official Little League baseball played in the city this year, the future looks bright.

If, on the other hand, there are only a few apathetic supporters of Little League, and an overwhelming number of forceful dissenters, kids baseball may fold as an organized sport entirely in the Orchard City.

In case that statement sounds forceful, it's meant to be. Last year there were a number of men who attended the meeting for one reason only—to point out that Kelowna was not ready for organized Little League.

They came, they won their point, and then they retired. That was the last time they were seen on the kids' baseball scene for that year.

"Let's see how well we can do this year, and then start into Little League next year," they said, and then they disappeared, leaving the work of handling the league to the dedicated few who had always carried the chores—and who wanted the affiliated Little League.

This year, however, a number of those men who have patiently borne the burden of helping the youngsters to a diamond-full of happiness each year, are slightly rebellious.

"Why should we let those guys call the plays if they're never going to touch the ball?" Their attitude is perfectly understandable, as any quarterback would readily agree.

The guys who call the shot should also carry the ball at times. This is the way the "faithful few" feel, and with this in mind they have adopted the firm stance, "No Little League, no support."

And based on last year's operation, their support is a "must."

NO VALID OBJECTIONS

One of the reasons given by the opposition last year for not starting Little League was the lack of a permanent home for the kids.

This reason has vanished over the winter, with the help of the city park board under Mayor R. F. "Dick" Parkinson, and the Kelowna Lions Club. The kids now have a home of their own, and one that will make them the envy of the valley by the time it is completed.

This reason, however, was in your humble scribe's opinion, footling and trivial. With the backing of four clubs assured, there was no reason why they couldn't have played in a cow-pasture, let alone their regular City Park diamonds, which Mr. Parkinson assured them would be theirs for the season.

"We are not ready," the detractors said, urging another good look be taken at the picture, with a view to laying a foundation for this year's operation as a proper Little League. This was also the most unmitigated nonsense, since there was nothing at all done last year that will be of benefit to the administrators this year. The same old faithful few turned out and worked themselves blue in the face carrying the chores of the complete operation.

The second reason, if such it could be called, just evaporated in a cloud of apathy, and leaves the way open this year to make a start in the right direction.

If for no other reason at all, it is coming to those who have worked hard for years to see it come about.

COMPETITIVE GAME

There was some talk about the ruthlessness of having just 60 boys make the four clubs that would comprise the first established Little League.

"We would rather have all the kids play ball than just a few," one or two people said rather testily.

On the surface, it looks rather cold-blooded to say that it would be better for the few in the long run to have the properly organized league, but closer examination shows this to be sound and sensible. Last year, there weren't too many more than 60 boys who faithfully attended games for the full season.

If it should prove to be the case this year that 90 boys are attending faithfully and seeking berths on the clubs, it is no trick at all to jump the league up by two teams. But the point is to make sure that those boys on the different clubs are able to make them by ability, and intend to hold their positions by attendance and performance.

To say that every kid who shows up should make the club is nothing short of ridiculous. Even on the sand-lots there are kids who make the team and those who don't. Anything else would be ridiculous, and would automatically remove much of the incentive from the game.

Nothing in the world could be healthier for a youngster contemplating participation in athletics than the spirit of competition. Nothing could better introduce him to the competition he is going to have to face all his life, and the need to overcome the barriers that confront him.

With the knowledge that he had to be a ball player to make the team, he would start on his own, working his way through the farm club system that is an integral part of a Little League set-up, and either make the club or not, instead of having the position handed to him on a platter.

The kids themselves would be the ones to gain.

PRAISE NOT HARMFUL

There was also some mention made of the glorification of the kids being harmful to them. While we do not preclude the possibility of such a thing happening in some places, we think the chance of that happening here is as remote as frost-bite to a Hottentot.

This glorification can, and does, occur when a commercial firm with more money than sense takes over, and tries to get as much advertisement out of the kids as possible. The chances of that happening in Little League have been cut down to the minimum, and are one infinitesimal shade from being impossible here.

The natural thrill that comes from earning a position on a team, from wearing a real-life uniform, from having his name in the paper is healthful and beneficial to a normal youngster. In fact, it is life-blood to some youngsters who are starved for encouragement and incentive that should be supplied by their own parents.

On the whole, the things that we can see against Little League are far out-weighted by the beneficial results of having it as a part of our 1958 sports picture.

It will be a fitting centenary move.

Mantle Seeking $10,000 Boost Over Last Year

NEW YORK (CP)—Outfielder Mickey Mantle, who drew $65,000 last season and was named the American League's most valuable player for the second successive time, dropped a $15,000 demand at the New York Yankees' office Tuesday and departed, unsigned, for Florida.

A few hours later while talking to reporters, manager Casey Stengel studiously avoided any direct reference to his star slugger's contract status but, in a review of Yankee shortcomings, said:

"Mantle should work out in centre field. He's missing balls hit back over his head. Needs some practice on that. He doesn't seem to know which way the ball is going to turn. Turns both ways and some of those balls get over him. I'm gonna have somebody hitting balls over his head down in camp, until he learns to do it right."

Teddy Bears Mostly Scared In Coast Exhibitions — Hall

"I'll admit senior 'A' women's worst. I've seen it . . . and last of C-FUN team is better than us but all . . . the girls were scared not 40 points better. This was all stuff." "Before we knew it they had us down 16-2 and although the girls came back in the last quarter, they had too big a lead on us by that time."

The girls have expressed a desire to play C-FUN a return at Kelowna if arrangements can be made. Coach Hall stated the senior "B" Ellers the girls played on Sunday were a much better team than the C-FUN squad. The girls went into the match relaxed and confident, but lost the game in the last quarter as they were outscored 10-2. The Meikle girls broke the Eller zone to hold a 7-point lead at the half 22-13.

Farmers Ask "Sensible" Automobiles

MONTREAL (CP) — Fewer frills and less horsepower, more economy—that's a request to the Canadian automotive industry from some Canadian farmers. A resolution to that effect was laid before the Canadian Federation of Agriculture's general meeting today as one of 72 resolutions to be discussed in the next two days.

The CFA's 22nd conference convened Monday and will conclude Friday after a final two-day session. The CFA's 22nd conference convened Monday and will conclude Friday after a final two-day session.

day closed summing up by the directors. Approved resolutions will figure in the annual brief to be submitted next week to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The auto industry resolution referred to cars and trucks "with unnecessary horsepower" and frills, plus too frequent retooling, which costs the average-income consumer too much to purchase, finance, insure and operate compared with European cars. . . . It said a motor vehicle is a farm-essentially and urged a more economical type which would produce more sales and thus more Canadian jobs.

NO PRESS CONFERENCE LASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will not hold a press conference this week, the White House said Tuesday. Press secretary James C. Hagerly said Eisenhower had intended to meet with reporters today but had to cancel that plan because of the death of his brother, Arthur B. Eisenhower.

Church Hall Filled To Capacity Burns' Night Huge Success

By ALICE WINSBY

Rabbi Burns—bard, rake, or democrat? A great many of the close to 300 participants in the annual Burns' night celebration, who filled the United Church hall to capacity on Friday night were given a new concept of Scotland's renowned poet.

Dr. W. G. Black, regional liaison officer, Dept. of Citizenship and Immigration, Vancouver, who was the main speaker of the evening, gave an impressive and moving address in his toast to the Immortal Memory Burns' understanding and love of his fellow man were expressed so eloquently that few who were privileged to hear Dr. Black will soon forget his words.

I found the whole evening one of sheer delight. From the first stirring notes of the pipers, Alex Harvie and Bruce Preston, heralding the entrance of the haggis, which was proudly borne in on a silver platter by Robert Caldwell, complete with chef's cap, and followed by W. J. Millar, with naked sword held erect as they marched around the hall—to the final sweet notes of "Auld Lang Syne," which ended the festivities.

The delicious turkey dinner, prepared entirely by men, members of the AOTS, and served piping hot by CGIT girls and members of the Friday night club of the church, was preceded by a stirring dramatization of the traditional toast to the haggis by William Love. Most of which I must confess was completely incomprehensible to me being delivered almost entirely in exceedingly broad Scots.

Alex Haig painted a nostalgic picture of "Scotland, the Land We Left," in his toast, and O. L. Jones, who is an experienced speaker, provided the audience with little known information on the magnificent part played in Canada's development by those Scots who have emigrated to this country, and their descendants, in the toast to "Canada, the Land We Live In."

A man who is noted for his love of jokes, D. H. "Pi" Campbell, provided hilarity with his toast to the lassies. Mrs. H. McDougall was more than a match for him however, in her clever response.

An exceptionally fine program of entertainment followed. Edythe

Walker sang three lovely airs which demonstrated her truly beautiful range. No Burns night in Kelowna would be complete without the fine tenor voice of Ernest Burnett, who was at his best. Mrs. Black, wife of the guest speaker, is a member of the B.C. Opera Players in Vancouver and a fine soprano. Her rendering of some of Burns' lesser known verses, set to lilting music was enthusiastically received.

A highlight of the evening was the performance given by members of the Scottish Country Dance Group. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Millar, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ivens, Marietta Anderson, Margaret Ritch, Jim MacFarlane and Dave Jeffrey, were a colorful and exceedingly graceful picture as they executed the intricacy of the steps with seeming ease.

Mrs. W. F. Anderson, Mrs. Alistair Campbell and Mr. W. Murray provided spirited music for the dancing which concluded Burns' Night to remember.

Ludvick-Millard Recent Rites

A pretty wedding was held at the home of the bride's parents on January 18, when Marguerite Susan, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Millard, Kelowna, exchanged vows with Charles George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Ludvick of Fairfax, Iowa.

The double ring ceremony was conducted under a beautiful arch of fir boughs combined with pink and white carnations, with Rev. R. M. Bourke officiating.

A pale blue satin gown with very full skirt and small standing collar was the choice of the bride who wore a matching hat. Her heart-shaped bouquet was composed of pale pink roses.

As the bride entered on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage, those assembled sang "How Good Is The God We Adore."

Miss Gladys Millard was her sister's only attendant. Gowned in rose satin, which featured a full pleated skirt, she wore a satin hat on tone and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The bride's brothers, Richard and Arthur Millard served as ushers, with another brother Donald, acting as groomsman. During the signing of the register Donald Millard played a lovely trumpet solo.

tion, the bride's table featured a three-tiered wedding cake be- hind glowing tapers, flanked by bouquets of red roses and lily of the valley. The groom took the opportunity to thank friends and guests for their gifts, kindness, and good wishes. Mrs. C. Berney presided at the urns.

For the honeymoon trip to Vancouver before travelling to Iowa City, Iowa, where the young couple will reside, the bride wore a blue coat with black accessories, and a pink rose corsage.

An aunt and uncle of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Groth, travelled from Los Angeles, Calif., to be present for the wedding. Other out-of-town guests included Mrs. C. Berney of Walla Walla, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. A. Coleman, Mrs. Eric Keating and Arthur Millard, all of Vancouver.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Overtly Rejected By Her Husband Woman Is Unbearably Frustrated

Dear Mary Haworth: Joe and I have been married for 24 years. We have a lovely home and two fine boys, ages 20 and 23. During these years Joe has been insa- nely jealous of me, and as a result I seldom go anywhere, and never have guests, except when relatives drop in.

About a year ago, Joe accused me of making a pass at a certain relative of his; and since then he has been sharing a room with our younger son. This is very humili- ating to me in front of the boys; also when we have relatives overnight and he makes no bones about it.

I am so frustrated that I find it very difficult even to carry on a sensible conversation with friends and neighbors. Deep down I love my husband, but I can't stand this rejection much longer. Thank you for any help you can give.

MAN'S JEALOUSY IS HATEFULNESS

Dear R. K.: Your husband's jealousy is a sort of substitute on his part for his inability, or his refusal, to give real love to his wife. Because he doesn't and never can love you, but only has been a vampire consumer of your love for him; he constantly expects to lose out.

Though he may think that he distrusts you, actually his deep- down trouble is that he is soul- sick with self-contempt. He de- spises himself, without ever having grasped that fact; and of course without knowing what's back of it in his earliest history.

Broadly stated, Joe's problem is that he can't imagine a woman putting up with him, or wanting him, after getting to know him — if she were given a later chance to choose, or to express her real feelings. And that's why he is always watching you green-eyed, and jumping to conclusions that he's being two-timed in subtle ways.

PARANOID TYPE OF SELF-CONTEMPT

Joe's jealousy is of the pa- ranoid type, it seems — and run- ning true to form, in the fact that it is getting worse in middle age. This brand of emotional sickness, marked by surly, sus- picious withdrawal from inti- macy, needs to be caught early and competently treated by psy- chiatry. To save the patient — and his family — from the tra- gedies of mental breakdown in later life.

The message that I'd like to get across to Joe is this — his harsh, unloving decision of a year ago, to humiliate you by sharing a room with the younger boy, making no secret of it to guests, wasn't caused by any action of yours. It was, purely and simply, just another symptom of chronic illness of the imagination — his illness.

In addition to the harm he is doing himself, by neglecting to get specialist help in clearing his head, your husband is also cri- ppling his children's capacity to be wholesome and happy, in their range of human relations — in the family and in society. He is preparing them to be peculiar, uncomfortable, self-rejecting in- dividuals — ashamed of their dad, embarrassed for their mother, hence mixed up, defiant and cringing in spirit.

Finally, of course, he is hurting you — as he vengefully intends to do. In effect, he is burdening you with his illness — causing you to suffer it deeply too; as if he felt that he has to make some- body pay, and pay dearly, for his abysmal lack of self respect.

NEWS FOR SWEATER GIRLS

By TRACY ADRIAN

Here's an elegant turn-about for girls who like sweaters. A style that has stepped right out of the casual class, it is all set for dressier occasions.

This pull-over is an evening cashmere with glamourous back interest which includes a dipping V-neck collar with a self cashmere bow and tie that can also be worn bow-side front. The other side of the fine slip-over has a high cuffed neckline.

Newest Is The "Spoon" Shape And Hemlines Deceit Shorter

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—It's still the sack, the chemise, the shapeless shape and the bag silhouette. Those women who have turned thumbs down so far on the formless fit must take another look, for Paris decrees—and business will back it up—that this will be the outstanding theme women will have to buy for the coming season.

Summing up the first four big Paris collections—from Gues, Jean Patou, Jacques Heim and Pierre Cardin—the following trends are outstanding:

Hemlines shorter than ever and raised to a scant 19 and 20 inches.

The unfitted look, which is coming through even stronger than last season.

Wide shoulders and bold open-up necklines.

Heim made news with his collection based on the free, unfitted silhouette. He calls this the new satellite in the orbit of fashion.

The "spoon shape" stars a brief 18-inch hemline with the loose chemise look, playing with an endless variation of wastelined lines that are indicated but never secured.

In jackets and dresses Heim interprets the straight flat front of a spoon, with bloused and rounded back effects from collar bones to hips which suggest the convex bowl.

Cardin, 34, whose early fashion training was under Christian Dior's direction, has gone all out for the chemise look, and shows one of the shortest hemlines in all Paris. His skirts barely graze the knees in front, and clearly show the crease of the leg at the back.

Cardin calls his new line the "sickle," and states that "today the natural body of a woman is out of fashion."

"It is the female figure that must conform to the shape of the dress."

Bahai World Community Sect Has Former Beauty As Leader

HAIFA, Israel (CP)—Twenty years ago the beautiful daughter of a Montreal architect came to Haifa on a pilgrimage. She remained to make her home in the Holy Land.

Today, the former Mary Maxwell is one of the nine disciples directing the religious life of the 2,000,000 of the Bahai World Community, a religious sect.

Soon after, the Canadian girl came here, she became the wife of Shoghi Effendi Rabbani, a young Persian (Iranian) intellectual who was "guardian" or leader of the Bahai religion founded by his great-grandfather, Mirza Hussein Ali.

PERSIAN ORIGIN

Following her husband's death last year, the widow—now known as Madame Ruhyyih Rabbani—was among the nine persons from five countries elected by Bahai elders to guide the destinies of 2,000,000 followers in 4,500 spiritual centres in many parts of the world.

"Other leaders, with the title 'hands of the cause,' are from Iran, the United States, Israel and West Germany."

"The Bahai faith was heralded in Persia in 1844 when Mirza Ali Mohammed, born a Moslem, publicly claimed to be the bearer of a divine message and mission. He was known as the bab (gate)."

"Predicting the arrival of a new prophet, he brought upon himself the wrath of Moslem authorities and was executed by a Persian firing squad at Tabriz, now described by Bahais as a 'second calvary.'"

SACRED SHRINE

Nineteen years later another Persian, Mirza Hussein Ali, known as Bahullah, proclaimed himself the chosen of God. He was banished by the Persians, imprisoned by the Turks but later allowed to live in a modest house at Acre, near here, where he died in 1892. His tomb in Acre is the most sacred shrine of the Bahai sect.

His grandson, Shoghi Effendi Rabbani, was to become the husband of Mary Maxwell, Ruhyyih Rabbani, which in Persian means "the lady of the soul."

Mary-Ruhyyih lives in a fine old Arab house beside Mount Carmel, spending many hours of contemplation and study amid beautiful gardens and statues where peasants and peacocks roam free.

Travels with her husband gave opportunity for indulging her hobby of collecting Japanese and Chinese carvings for her home.

MOUNT TEMPLE

Mary-Ruhyyih was brought up in the Bahai religion, her father, W. S. Maxwell, and her mother having embraced the faith following a visit to Canada by the sage, Abdul Baha.

The Montreal architect built a

Bahai temple in Chicago, the first in the Western world, and also designed the impressive gold-domed mausoleum on Mount Carmel where rests the sarcophagus of the Bab, known as "the herald of one greater than he."

Mary - Ruhyyih, studying the poetry and mysticism of the East to combine with her Western background, found no conflict between the two cultures, saying they form a harmonious unity.

"Ours is not an Oriental religion but a universal one."

UNIVERSAL PEACE

Asked about a kerchief worn over her hair, the only Oriental note in her costume, she recalled that when she married Shoghi Effendi, his mother and sister, newly-arrived from Persia, were heavily veiled.

"I decided that in order not to be conspicuous, I would wear a scarf. When they both died I was left with the heart and now I feel lost without it."

When her husband died without heirs, Mary-Ruhyyih decided to continue his work as much as possible.

Love of humanity and work for universal peace are the cornerstones of the Bahai creed which envisages a world super-state and complete reconciliation between labor and capital.

Yves St. Laurent Dior Successor?

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—The Paris couture fashion collections for spring and summer focus world-wide attention on a young designer, Yves St. Laurent, who was comparatively unknown until Christian Dior died in Italy last October.

Although the "decade of Dior" is over, the House of Dior, owned by industrialist Marcel Boussac, will continue under collective leadership, with Dior's 21-year-old protégé as designer.

The big question in the fashion is: "Has Yves St. Laurent the creative genius to carry on this empire?"

NO BIG CHANGES

People in the business are convinced that Boussac has no intention of allowing his major investment to lose its gilt-edged rating by slipping to second place among the couture houses, and that he must therefore have implicit confidence in St. Laurent's ability.

Psychologically, the shy, Algerian-born designer carries a heavy load. He has indicated that he intends to produce no revolution in existing styles, but will evolve a spring and summer theme around the master's last collection.

Dior left no sketches or concrete plans for the spring collection when he died. The nucleus of each forthcoming collection, compiled in hundreds of rough drawings usually was not completed until six weeks before the opening.

As fashions are easily influenced by current events and geographical background, some foreign trends may well show up in the spring and summer collections. Many of the designers have travelled far in the last few months seeking atmosphere to evolve their creative ideas.

HEMELINES SHORT

As regards the summer line, the big question is whether the chemise dress, paired with the short hemline, will continue to hold sway in Paris. The "plain Jane" look needed time to gain universal acceptance, and women may not be ready to relinquish their sacks.

The word from the fitting rooms of all top French dress-makers is that the short skirt length proved to be the dark horse that won the fashion race.

Many private clients said, when placing orders last season, that they wished their hemlines to be stabilized at the former long length of 15 to 16 inches above the floor. After the first fitting, these same women were heard to say: "I have changed my mind. Please shorten my skirt to an 18-inch length."

NEW FOR SPRING, THE TALL BERET LOOK, BY SAPHIRE

London Designers Display Cerulean Influence Strong

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters)—The Sputniks seem to have turned the thoughts of London's fashion designers toward the heavens.

The freedom of a body in limitless space, the lightness of air, the clear blue of a cloudless sky or the vivid shades of sunrise and sunset—all these are reflected in London's current fashion picture.

"It's heaven!" is, in fact, the theme of a pre-collection display on accessories by the associate members of the Incorporated Society of London Fashion Designers.

The display is being arranged in connection with a pre-collection ball for overseas buyers and important guests, to be held Feb. 3, the eve of the London opening.

Some 200 yards of "heavenly blue" velvet stretched on frames will create a room within a room in the grand salon of Dartmouth House, with its lovely marble staircase.

ANGELS YET

Within this man-made "heaven," angels floating on clouds of white tulle will display the various fashion accessories made by the associate members of the society—hats, shoes, furs, stockings, costume jewelry, lingerie and corsets.

The London collections this year are being shown after those of Rome, Florence and Paris. London's couturiers agreed to make the experiment as a result of complaints from overseas buyers that the overlapping of the London and Florence openings made it impossible for them to attend both.

Details of "the 1958 look," as seen by London's designers, are secret until each opens his collection. But there are a number of straws in the wind.

It is almost certain that there will be no violent change of line. Evolution rather than revolution is in the air—and that includes evolution of the autumn "sack" dress into an easy fitting shape with lightly-marked waist and belt, or a version of the two-piece jumper suit.

The sack, as such, already is finished in London, though its influence lingers. For weeks now, there has not been a "pure sack" in sight.

London Zoo Parrot House Noisy Forum

LONDON (CP)—Despite some opinions to the contrary, the noisiest debating forum in London is not the House of Commons. Pitted against the 200 inhabitants of the London Zoo's parrot house, all 630 MPs shouting in unison wouldn't have a hope of catching Mr. Speaker's eye.

Fred Shambrook, moderator of the avian debates in his capacity of head keeper, also insists that the language employed by his charges is just as parliamentary as anything that ever came out of Westminster. And just as often misinterpreted.

Told that visitors had complained of excessively colorful expressions in the vocabulary of the zoo's parrots, cockatoos and macaws, Shambrook said he hasn't heard a single objectionable word from them in his 20 years on the job.

Their most common remarks are "hello" and "goodbye," although one of the friendlier macaws occasionally invites a caller to have a nut, Shambrook explained, adding that the birds are frequently misunderstood because of their parliamentary habit of interrupting each other's speeches.

The keeper said a degree of license is permitted a somewhat Churchillian cockatoo aged more than 100 and still active. As the house's oldest member, the bird is fond of addressing its colleagues as "you bald-headed old rat."

FIRE CAME TO FIREMEN
WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Firemen didn't have to budge for a fire Monday night—it came to them. When truck driver Tom Boyce, 31, discovered a fire in his vehicle's dashboard, he drove the truck to the fire hall.

FLOWER SHOW

By ALICE ALDEN

WINTER roses, blooming on a background of pure silk warp-print, create one of the new looks this season. Flowers are really burgeoning in the winter fashion world, from discreet little blossoms for day wear to big splashy blooms by night. Nat Kaplan, taking cognizance of this phase of fashion, does a beautiful floral print of big roses in rich but muted colors. The arch-shaped skirt, created by open pleats over the hips, offer a graceful line. Short, tight sleeves emerge from covered shoulders and end in gay butterfly bows.

Sky And Scenery Highlight Trip Through Strait Of Magellan

For any list of the Seven Wonders of the world and for a unique and highly interesting trip the Strait of Magellan is a "must" according to Mr. Max Turner of Kelowna Travel Agency.

As one of Nature's famous waterways all of us have heard about it since those young years when it became a part of our lessons in geography and history. Yet few who know that the Strait of Magellan is away down here at the lower end of South America have ever travelled any part of it. Those who have done so all praise this magnificent combination of water and land.

SUNSETS BEAUTIFUL
Andean mountains, some snow-capped, others with glaciers, play an important part in spectacular views both to the north and south. Under certain conditions skies and clouds, sunsets and sunrises can be quite beautiful. The wind seems to blow all the time—and it does. Because the prevailing winds have been from the west before and since Magellan first navigated this treacherous waterway, captains of sailing vessels have preferred for more than three centuries the great, but nevertheless lesser, dangers of rounding southern South America by going much further to the south around Cape Horn by that other strait, hundreds of miles wide, which bears the name of Sir Francis Drake—Estrecho de Drake.

On Aug. 10, 1519, Ferdinand Magellan, a naval officer who had renounced his Portuguese nationality, sailed from Spain in command of five vessels, only one of them destined to complete the first circumnavigation of the world. He proposed to make his way to the Spice Islands of the East Indies by sailing to the west via a strait he figured must be in the extreme southern section of South America, even if he had to sail to 75 degrees South Latitude.

He had sold this big idea to King Charles V of Spain, to members of Antwerp and Seville trading firms and to Faleiro the astronomer, who withdrew from accompanying the expedition because of a casting of his horoscope indicating that the venture would prove fatal to him—as it proved to be to Magellan.

CRUSHED MUTINY
Steering southwest from Spain, Magellan reached South America at Cape St. Augustin, near Pernambuco, on Nov. 29. He followed the east coast of this new world down to the estuary of La Plata, which he explored from Jan. 11 to Feb. 6, 1520. Failing to find a passage in this area, he continued southward until March 31 when he stopped at Port St. Julian. In the course of wintering there he crushed a serious mutiny among his crews on April 1-2 and gained the friendship of the natives, whom he called Patagonians because of their big feet. Doubtless they had feet noticeably larger than these Europeans who were making the grand tour, but the natives' large size and lofty stature were greatly magnified by the imagination of an Italian gentleman, Pigafetta, who accompanied the expedition as a member of Magellan's staff and left the best account of the circumnavigation.

Sailing from Port St. Julian on Aug. 24, 1520, Magellan discovered on Oct. 21 the Cape of the 11-

000 Virgins, now known as Cape Virgin and Cabo Virgenes, at the eastern entrance of the long sought passage. He guided his little fleet successfully through tortuous and narrow passages, but fearful of visible dangers and of the great unknown ahead of them, the crew of one of the five ships, the "S. Antonio," deserted him. The first stretch of forbidding land to the south, "stark with eternal cold," was named Isla Grande de Terra del Fuego, the great island of fire land, because of the many fires set by natives who inhabited it. The last long desolate island was appropriately called Isla de la Desolación.

The courageous leader held a council of the captains and pilots of his four remaining vessels and prevailed on them to continue the voyage. This was on Nov. 21, 1520, and seven days later the expedition, led by Magellan on his flagship, the Trinidad, reached Cabo Desado, the "desired" cape at the western end of the strait which was due to bear his name down through the centuries.

KILLED IN FIGHT

From the strait Magellan entered the Great South Sea, which Balboa had discovered seven years before and which the Portuguese navigator was the first to sail across. Magellan called it the Pacific, since its waves and winds proved gentle in carrying his fleet to the Philippines, where on an island near Cebu he was killed in a fight with natives. Although Magellan did not live to see his dream come true and only one of the original fleet of five, the Vittoria, completed the voyage around the world, many historians and geographers rate it as an event ranking in importance with the discovery of America by Columbus.

Today the passage of the Strait of Magellan is easy and safe for large motor and steam vessels, no matter what the winds from the west may be. Travelers on the Swedish American Line's new cruise ship, the Gripsholm, will be able next March to view sky and water, mountains and glaciers, in the greatest comfort possible although in one of the most inhospitable regions in the world. They will see a lot of scenery—that of both island and mainland coastlines, indented with bays and fjords—also seabirds and wild fowl. At various points on the shores are found members of the seal family, innumerable wild fowl and a lot of penguins, and inland are several millions of sheep on great ranches, most of them developed and owned by British corporations, with Scotch shepherds and their dogs in charge of the large flocks.

Only in Punta Arenas, the Gripsholm's one port of call in the strait, will sheep be seen, and these in butcher shops. It is from Punta Arenas and smaller ports that large quantities of wool, sheepskins and frozen mutton are shipped to distant countries.

In the 1880s there was a gold rush to Argentina's eastern section of Tierra del Fuego, but in time sheep became its "white gold". Now on the Chilean side, as a result of the discovery of oil in 1945, "black gold" is becoming important in the island's limited economy. The Chilean government's company, Empresa Nacional del Petroleo, has built derricks, pipelines and roads and is operating tankers, L.S.M.s, trucks and planes. So workers of the new industry have increased the population in the Chilean area of Tierra del Fuego a third to 6,000 and are now producing oil at the rate of 11,000 barrels a day. Whether there will be a similar growth on the Argentine side remains to be seen. Its population is 5,000, and oil is said to have been located there too.

Few signs of the sparse population and the millions of sheep are to be seen from shipboard, but passengers on the Gripsholm will enjoy a grandstand view from open and closed decks with sea, sky and scenery providing the thrills of their twentieth century passage of the Strait of Magellan. Only one stop is made in the Gripsholm's navigation of the strait, and that at Punta Arenas. Once called Magallanes, the name borne by Chile's surrounding territory, Punta Arenas is the most southern city on earth, interesting in the way it combines features of a North American country town with British and European characteristics as its 40,000 residents make and lead their own austere life on a unique frontier of lonely waters and end-of-the-world land masses.

ROCKET RULES

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — To protect aircraft, junior scientists engineering rocket flights in Minnesota hereafter must keep their experiments clear of the state's 117 principal airports and landing strips. Dele Molver, state aeronautics commissioner, said buffer strips 10 miles wide would be set around principal airports in 30 communities with five-mile bands surrounding the lesser used strips.

ODD FACT

When members of her family were smitten with severe stomach pains after eating "liver and onions," a Birmingham, England, housewife discovered that she had put daffodil bulbs in the dish instead of onions.

Tall Blonde Does Man's Job Recommends Young Women Enlist

By MARY FRANK BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A tall, striking blonde lends a touch of glamour to a job heretofore held only by men in Canada's air force.

She is Flying Officer Alice Margaret Outram of Ottawa, "Amo" to her friends. At 22 she is the first woman press relations officer employed in the general information branch of the RCAF. Recently she was posted to Toronto from Ottawa.

"Press liaison work is a full-time job," said FO Outram who is on the spot daily at RCAF headquarters here ready to give facts about the air force, whether it be air defence, transport or DEW line information.

READY WITH ANSWERS
She answers all queries. Some are from wives who haven't received their husbands' monthly cheques. Others might ask about physiotherapists at Goose Bay or about trailer camps at a camp in Alberta.

"Life in the women's division of the air force is ideal," she said in an interview. She recommends young girls and women to enlist and join some 2,600 others already in the service.

"It offers practical experience, sound training and wonderful opportunities to travel," said the blue-eyed flying officer.

Another aspect of the WD, which appeals to many who are interested in furthering their education, is that the RCAF will put students through their last year of college in return for a few years' service after graduation.

As the daughter of Wing Commander and Mrs. John Charles Outram, she has been brought up in the world of airplanes.

CHOOSE PUBLIC RELATIONS
While in her third year of Journalism at Carleton College, Ottawa, she joined the summer RCAF university training reserve in the public relations department.

Returning to Carleton to graduate the following year FO Outram decided "then and there" the newspaper world was out and public relations work would be her choice.

Right now she is busy furnishing her apartment and having plenty of fun picking out furniture, draperies and color combinations.

It's her first time away from home apart from a year at school in Scotland. Boarding school life is fascinating, she said, especially in Scotland with no central heating, rising at 6 a.m. to face a cold bath.

"We all got quite muscle bound playing hockey," she added. And listen to this: FO Outram owns between 80 and 90 pairs of shoes — thus another nickname "Boots." She wears the soles out inside of three weeks. This she blames on her height which is 5 feet, 10 inches. Amo prefers "3 feet, 8 12-17 inches"—it sounds better.

FREE TREATMENT
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Children under 16, already receiving free hospital accommodation, will be given free medical and surgical treatment in Newfoundland after Feb. 1. This was announced Monday by Health Minister James McGrath. Children under 16 have received hospital accommodation without charge since Jan. 1, 1937.

Professional Toastmasters Will Butter Their Own Toast In 1958

By EDDY GILMORE — LONDON (AP) — London's professional toastmasters have decided to butter their own toast in 1958.

"Toasts are going to cost more because we want more money for our toasts," said Harold Dean, president of the Society of London Toastmasters.

The London professional toastmaster is a unique calling—and as essential to public dinners and luncheons as salt and pepper.

Dressed in scarlet coats dripping in gold braid, they introduce the guests and speakers and do it so grandly they can make mister sound like marquis.

"It's not easy work," Dean explained. "Have you ever considered what it takes out of a man to introduce 800 guests in a loud clear voice and get all their titles right?"

He cited the annual lord mayor's banquet, the derby of all the dinners. It usually includes the prime minister, cabinet ministers, the Archbishop of Canterbury, ambassadors, assorted peers, judges, baronets, knights and a lot of just plain people.

"A mistake in title or precedence is unthinkable," said Dean. "Everything has to be correct and it is correct."

After each guest is announced, the toastmaster takes his position behind the lord mayor. With each toast—and they are numerous—he must thunder this preamble: "My lord mayor, my lady lord mayor, your grace, your excellencies, my lords, aldermen, sheriffs, ladies and gentlemen."

BLAMES RISING COSTS To this the toastmaster must add the name of the speaker. For instance: "Pray silence for the Right Honorable Harold Macmillan, the prime minister."

Dean said the demand for higher fees is not based on the breath consumed, but rising costs.

"Before we had a scarlet tailcoat cost 12 guineas (then $50.20). Now they cost 45 guineas ($132.30)."

Winter Employment Lack Said Another Bad Habit

MONTREAL (CP) — Basis for solving much of the winter unemployment problem may be found in habits, says the Montreal Employment Committee.

Habit, says the committee, sponsoring its third annual winter employment campaign, has led to little or nothing being done to remedy the situation which puts thousands of laborers out of work in the Montreal area during the winter.

The committee, comprised of representatives of business, industry, labor and charitable organizations, hopes to make the public aware of the problem by changing thinking habits, "which no doubt have contributed in no small way to winter unemployment."

"We should rid ourselves of the idea that nothing can be done about seasonal unemployment and steps should be taken to eliminate it as much as possible," a recent bulletin said.

The committee is sponsoring a campaign to keep men working through the winter. Now, and not spring, was the time to clean, paint, renovate and repair factories, warehouses and homes.

The job could be done more quickly, at less cost, because men and materials were available.

Dale Robertson Innocent Abroad

By BOB THOMAS — HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This might be titled "An American in Rome or Innocent Abroad."

It concerns actor Dale Robertson and his adventures in Italy shooting Anne of Brooklyn with Gina Lollobrigida. Dale is a plain — talking Oklahoma who speaks his piece and lets the chips fly where they may. So we'll let him talk:

"Gina and I didn't have any fights. Some fantastic stories were printed, including one that I showed up at the airport with a black eye she gave me. There was nothing like that. But I will say that I didn't hit it off too well. Those Italian film people aren't the warmest in the world. A POOR SPOT

"The whole thing wasn't a very good situation for me. Her husband was the producer and her partner, Vittoria De Sica, was directing and appearing in the picture, too. I was bound to come out short and end."

"On the last day of the picture I told them that I never played so many scenes where the other actors were between me and the camera. Every scene I had with De Sica had him facing the camera and me with my back to it."

"There were 4,300 stills taken on the picture. It didn't matter how anyone else looked in the photos. If they were good of Gina, they were kept. If not, the negative was burned."

DIFFERENT SCRIPT "When I got over there I found they were using a different script from the one I agreed to do. Then they started on billing. I was told my name had to be in type 75 per cent of the size of hers. That was in her contract, they said. I told them she'd better get a new contract or find an actor who was worth only 75 per cent of her."

"I never gave a hoot about billing, but I wasn't going to look silly. I told them none of my pictures ever lost money, which was more than I could say for hers. The name Gina Lollobrigida doesn't sell a ticket in this country. What has she done? Trapeze — but there were a couple of fair boys named Tony Curtis and Burt Lancaster in that picture. I don't think anybody here said, 'Let's go see Gina Lollobrigida in Trapeze.'"

"Even Marilyn Monroe, who is 10 times as big a name, can't sell a picture unless it's a proven stage hit like Seven Year Itch. Blonds. So what chance has Gina got?"

"Anyway, they came back with the proposal my name could be in type 75 per cent. I agreed — if they listed me at the end of the cast: and Dale Robertson."

ROOMS AT PREMIUM "When I got on the set, I found there was a dressing room for Gina, a room for De Sica, but I had to share one with two other actors. I asked how come and they said they were short of rooms. So I didn't beef."

"It does seem funny. Whenever a European star comes here, they get the finest suites, uniformed chauffeur and the works. Over there, they don't even meet you at the plane."

Would he make another picture in Italy? "Maybe," he said, "but not if the star's husband is the producer and her partner the director."

Phil Gaglardi Serves God VANCOUVER (CP) — Highway Minister P. A. Gaglardi said here Monday night that while he is in the legislature he will serve God.

Mr. Gaglardi is pastor of the Calvary Temple in Kamloops. He was addressing the Vancouver Christian Business Men's committee annual dinner.

"Sure I will get laughed at," he said, "but it doesn't worry me what people say. All I want to do is serve God."

Mr. Gaglardi said he did not know why he was in politics. "But I know what business God has in politics — to make men — but there were a couple of fair boys named Tony Curtis and Burt Lancaster in that picture. I don't think anybody here said, 'Let's go see Gina Lollobrigida in Trapeze.'"

West's Oil, Gas Industry Has Far-Reaching Effects

By RICHARD ANCO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP) — In sickness or in health, the effects of western Canada's oil and natural gas industry stretch far and wide.

The benefits of a healthy oil industry are almost endless. It means employment for thousands of drillers, pipeline construction workers, truck drivers, geophysicists, service and supply personnel, steel industry workers, automobile makers, refinery workers and scores of other industries.

And it means money—for the federal, provincial and local governments. There are taxes and oil leases—revenues that run into millions of dollars a year. Municipalities benefit from property taxes and other assessments. Each drilling rig in operation near a small town puts about $10,000 a month into that town's economy.

PRODUCTION SLUMP

In sickness, on the other hand, governments feel the drop in revenues, men find themselves without jobs and storekeepers find their trade dwindling.

Western Canada's, and particularly Alberta's, oil and gas business now is passing through a phase of economic sickness. Production in 1957 slumped to a serious point for the first time in more than 10 years. The recession is expected to continue at least part of this year.

Production in Alberta began to fall off mid-way in 1957, wavering under the competition from the Middle East and South American oil and from increased supplies in Saskatchewan, where production last year was 76 per cent higher than in 1956.

Lower shipping rates after the Suez crisis was resolved made it more profitable for American refineries on the Pacific coast to import oil from the Eastern Mediterranean and Venezuela than from Alberta.

LESS DRILLING

The Canadian Petroleum Association reported at the end of the year that as many as 2,000 oil company workers were unemployed because 100 of about 350 drilling rigs in western Canada are idle. Exploration has slowed considerably in the last few months as a result of shrinking export markets.

The CPA estimates that in the decade since 1947, various levels of government have benefited by more than $1,000,000,000 from oil and gas growth.

Optimistic for the future, the CPA estimates that government treasuries in Canada should collect more than $2,000,000,000 in the next 10 years from oil and gas expansion. This depends, of course, on incentives in the industry to develop its output.

HOPEFUL SIGNS

The current slump is blamed in part on rapid producing expansion while markets, domestic and foreign, did not keep pace. Measures are being sought to open the prosperous U.S. Pacific northwest to Canadian oil.

However, it is expected that in the long run oil tanker rates will increase and make Alberta more attractive to American refiners. Refinery expansion in the next two years, both in Canada and the U.S., will also create more demand.

Elusive Fighter For Justice — Zorro Boosts Hooper Rating

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This year a masked horseman stole the thunder from all the film and television cowpokes who rode in the Pasadena rodeo parade. It was that elusive fighter for justice—Zorro!

Not only did Zorro draw the biggest hand from the parade crowds with his black mask and cape and his singing sword, but he has been slicing into his Thursday night opposition on ABC, amassing a healthy rating for a new show.

Unmasked, he turned out to be a handsome young actor named Guy Williams.

Though he seems at home in the Los Angeles pueblo of 1820, Guy is actually a Latin from Manhattan. He was born in New York City of Italian parents.

FAILED FIRST TIME

A role on TV's Studio One drew him a contract at Universal-International. What happened?

"Nothing," he said. "They saw me as a leading man, and wouldn't cast me in character parts."

Dropped by the studio, Guy returned to New York for a spell, then decided to try his luck in Hollywood again last year. His luck was good.

His agent took him to the Disney studios, which was planning the Zorro series. Handsome and immediate-three, Guy made an immediate impression. He could ride horseback (he learned New York parks) and he could fence ("I took two years of lessons, but only for my own amusement"). Being familiar with Italian, French, German and Spanish, he picked up the proper accent in no time.

He is just beginning to reap the rewards of his new fame. He profits on all merchandizing which bears his name or figure, and the upcoming products are reported to be double the amount of the Davy Crockett craze—everything from cigaret lighters to record albums.

PARIS (Reuters) — The National Statistics Institute estimates that it will take 100 years to catch up the building backlog in France.

Opening lead—jack of hearts. During the past week this column has featured a hand played at one time or another by each member except myself of the American team which is currently engaged in Lake Como, Italy, in trying to bring the world championship title back to the United States. It is perhaps not amiss to make mention of a hand in which I was recently involved.

The deal shown came up in the Nationals when they were played in Los Angeles last month. It emphasizes the role caution can play in declarer's handling of the dummy.

I sat South. A heart was led and the disappointing dummy came down. My partner had as little as the law allows, considering he had made two bids.

There was a diamond loser and a minimum of two trump losers. Obviously, the trump had to be tackled at once if the contract was to be made, so the heart was taken in dummy and the nine of spades was led and allowed to run.

West took the queen and continued with the ten of hearts which went to the ace. A club to the queen put dummy in for another trump lead. When East produced the jack, the king was played, West winning with the ace.

Another heart lead was ruffed, thus reducing me to the solitary ten of spades while West still had the four.

It was at this point in the play that many declarers with the South hand made the error of drawing West's last trump. When the clubs failed to break favorably, these declarers had to lose three more tricks and suffered a two-trick defeat.

It occurred to me that nothing could be lost by first testing the club situation. So the king of clubs was played and the safety measure was rewarded when East showed out.

A low club was ruffed in dummy. Now a spade to the ten drew West's only trump and permitted the remaining clubs to be cashed, thus making the contract.

YOUR HOROSCOPE The Stars Say

FOR TOMORROW

THIS should prove a pleasant day. Most persons will be congenial mood and from all indications, job and household matters should run smoothly. You might even try to branch out a bit now and try something new provided any changes you make in present plans are not too drastic.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that the next five months should prove unusually stimulating. From now until mid-July, initiative and enterprise are favored, with success promised in sound business and financial moves. Take advantage of all opportunities available under these excellent aspects.

Stars warn, however, that some caution will be necessary in personal relationships. Be your inately understanding and diplomatically self at all times, but especially during July and August, when emotional outbursts could cause serious disruptions in either family or social circles. Forewarned of the tendencies which will be prevalent during such periods, you should be able to control your natural impulsiveness and forestall unpleasantness.

For the single, late June will be an excellent period for romance and marriage. Look for a good financial break late in September but don't, through sheer optimism, go overboard in spending. Be especially careful to avoid extravagance in late November. A child born on this day will be imaginative, talented and highly ingenious in carrying out unique ideas.

Alberta Oil Industry Faces Stiff Competition From Saskatchewan

By RICHARD ANCO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP)—Alberta's oil industry, plagued by stiffer competition from Saskatchewan and restricted exports to the United States, is viewing natural gas as an attractive business crutch.

But the natural gas industry itself is riding unpredictable times, caught in a controversy on export potential and the desirability of ensuring sufficient quantities for future Canadian needs.

With the completion in 1957 of the westcoast transmission pipeline from northeastern British Columbia to the U.S. and about 60 per cent of the trans-Canada pipeline to Eastern Canada, industry leaders are hoping wider gas export permits to the American market will provide the incentive for further development of Canadian fields.

"VITAL" QUESTION

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta has frequently expressed his concern on the matter.

With the decline in oil markets, it is vital to the continued development and growth of the industry in our province that no artificial barriers be put in the way of obtaining export markets for gas which is surplus to our province's and national requirements.

Carl O. Nickle, publisher of the Daily Oil Bulletin in Calgary, says Alberta natural gas reserves must be transformed into "a second string in the bow" of the province's oil industry.

This year may set the stage for the future. N. J. McNeill, general counsel for Trans-Canada

Pipe Lines Ltd., says an opinion on gas export may be obtained from the Borden royal commission on energy resources by mid-1958. Trans-Canada wants to export gas to the U.S. mid-west.

HIGHER ACTIVITY

With the oil industry struggling through a recession which may extend through this year, activity seems to have been stepped up in gas.

Alberta's oil boom, hitting a levelling-off period since mid-1957, has added special attention to the gas situation. Struck by low tanker rates able to bring Middle East and South American oil to the Pacific refineries of the U.S. cheaper than from Alberta and by increased oil supplies in Saskatchewan, oil production is expected in 1958 to remain below the level of previous years.

It is a very serious oil marketing problem complicated by new uncertainties about the

Pearkes Warns Against Disunity

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes warned today that the Western nations will be "ruined" unless they stick together in face of the Russian threat.

People of the West must not allow themselves to become so "effete or luxury-loving" that they are unwilling to pay the expensive price for maintaining the deterrent to war.

chances of developing a secondary source of income from gas," says Mr. Nickle.

Wastage of gas continues in Alberta oil fields because of the uncertainty. Where gas must be produced to recover crude oil, much of it is pumped into flare lines and wasted.

Most oil companies are planning their 1958 programs in line with assurances of revenue from gas. But the most frequent argument against additional export is that it may endanger the long-term security of supply and price for Canadian consumers. Some fear that if export doors are opened, prices will rise for domestic use.

PRODUCTION TRIPLED

Natural gas production in the last 10 years in Western Canada has tripled to about 200,000,000 cubic feet yearly and with completion of the trans-Canada pipeline will likely increase.

Known gas reserves have risen during the same period by 11 times to about 24,000,000,000,000. The Gordon economic commission envisages gas production in 1980 of nearly 3,000,000,000 cubic feet daily, with the Canadian market absorbing only 2,000,000,000.

Indirect effects of improving the gas industry would include more capital investment for exploration and development, high expenditures in operating costs which would accrue to Canadians and Canadian businesses and increased industrial development resulting in part from increased by-products derived from gas—sulphur, propane, butane, and other petrochemicals.

U.S.-Russia Sign Radio, TV Compact

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia Monday signed an agreement to speed up exchange of persons, movies and radio-television broadcasts.

The agreement, signed at the state department by Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin and William S. B. Lacy of the department, also called "in principle" for direct air flights between Moscow and New York.

The state department immediately made public a joint U.S.-Soviet communique, a text of the agreement running about 4,500 words, and an exchange of letters.

The agreement on exchange broadcasts discussing "international political problems" was in principle only. The agreement said "details of the exchanges shall be agreed upon at the working level."

In addition, a "letter of understanding" from Lacy, department specialist on East-West exchanges, agreed that texts of any radio-TV broadcasts would be "exchanged in advance and discussed at the working level."

The Lacy letter said either side could veto a program if it found that "any such broadcast will not contribute to a betterment of relations."

Swapping of radio-TV "commentaries on current events" had been the No. 1 goal of the United States in the negotiations leading up to the agreement.

Macmillan made his comments at a press conference at the start of a tour of Australia.
